EDMONTON AND RIVER NAVIGATION

A considerable number of the early settlers in Edmonton came here to prospect for gold. The Saskatchewan was found to contain valuable deposits of the precious metal. Steamers were put on the river and the sand bars were washed and reworked, until the supply of gold obtainable in this way was pretty well exhausted. The steamers then fell into disuse and river navigation was almost unthought of, except in the case of the Hudson Bay Company, and their operations were confined to their own freighting. The great resources of the country have of late been getting through examination. There are dozens of men in this district of who are attracted here by the wonderful natural and as yet undeveloped resources of the district, rather than its agricultural possibilities. A number of these people represent or are in a position to command a great amount of capital. We know of wealthy men who have gone out from Edmonton on prospecting trips, to ascertain for themselves, beyond the shadow of a doubt, whether the resources of the country tributary to Edmonton are worthy of exploitation. They have in almost every case returned with enthusiasm from their findings, which greatly exceeded their most sanguine expectations. In almost every scheme for developing the abundant and latent resources of the district, the Saskatchewan and its tributary streams will be made use of. It is only within the last year or two that any real attempts have been made towards perfecting schemes for navigating the river which has lain at our doors practically useless and considered to our shame as a possible detriment to our town. The foolishness of this idea is being rapidly exposed. Wealthy persons of long experience in this matter are taking up the subject of river navigation and different projects now under way are being rapidly worked to successful issues. For various reasons we decline to further discuss the actual question of the different projected methods of river navigation but in the meantime would wish to merely mention several projected schemes in the development of which the river would play a very important part.

As the country settles up from Edmonton to Battleford, freighting will remain immense proportions. Even at present hardly a day passes but several rafts leave Edmonton loaded with provisions and supplies of all kinds for the comparatively few settlers down the river. What the trade will be when the whole country is thickly settled up affords opportunities for considerable speculation. The freighting of supplies up the Saskatchewan will also increase correspondingly and weavers will be requisitioned to take the rafts and scows up and down the river. For every steamer that is now required to handle the traffic in a few years a whole fleet will be necessary. The development of the known extensive coal properties up the river will be taken up and vast quantities of excellent coal will be able to be taken down at Edmonton very reasonably. The presence of cheap coal in such large quantities will give rise to the establishment of manufacturing concerns on the flats below the hill. The immense timber limits up the Saskatchewan and along tributary streams will furnish millions of feet of timber that can be shipped down the river to Edmonton for manufacturing into all kinds of wooden goods. The practically limitless extent of spruce bush will furnish logs to warrant the erection of large pulp mills here. A hitherto almost unexploited source of great wealth are the immense deposits of a very superior grade of building stone up the river. Reports are continually coming to hand of deposits of coal of a certain grade of iron. These will all be thoroughly exploited in the very near future. Deposits of natural asphalt are known to exist near the head waters of the river, but the size and extent of the deposits have not yet been proved. These are but a few of the resources, the exploitation of which merits the necessary capital. The more this abundant resources of this district are considered, the firmer grows one's faith in a brilliant future for Edmonton.

School closes today.
Every person in town should attend the exhibition each and every day.

There will be no license granted the gold boarding house on Fraser avenue, Edmonton.

A new fence is being built around the power house and the enclosed grounds have been seeded down.

A number of race horses have arrived and are practicing on the track at the exhibition grounds.

The erection of a hog ranch and pork packing establishment near Flat Creek has been commenced.

Commencing Wednesday, July 1st, there will be a daily mail between Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan.

Entries are pouring in for the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition. Over two hundred were received this morning.

Professor Fletcher, of Ottawa, will address a meeting of the Territorial Natural History Society at Calgary on Friday evening, July 10th.

There will be a cricket match played on Saturday at 2 p.m. on the exhibition grounds between married and single men.

By a change in the Post Office Act, weekly newspapers will be carried for three hundred miles from the place of publication at a quarter of a cent a pound, instead of half a cent, as at present.

There will be a practice of the Edmonton cricket club this evening on the exhibition grounds at 7:30 for all members and for all those who wish to join. A good attendance is expected in view of a match for Saturday.

Mr. Vernon Barford's pupils will give two recitals on Monday next in All Saints' schoolroom. The first will commence at 2:30 in the afternoon and the second at 8:45 in the evening. These will be the closing recitals for the past year.

J. F. Forbes, J. P., delivered his judgment in the wages case yesterday between J. Downing and F. E. Goode. J. Downing was dismissed by F. E. Goode and he sued Goode for two months' wages, claiming wrongful dismissal. The magistrate's finding granted Downing one month's wages.

Edmonton may well be proud of her agricultural grounds to which she will invite sightseers on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. All the exhibition buildings are nicely painted and are in readiness for the fair. The race track is in perfect condition and the grounds for the games and sports could not be improved on.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the grounds is the beautiful grove of trees extending along the whole east side which furnishes ideal places for small picnic parties or for those who prefer the cool shade of the grove to the glare of the race course. If the weather holds good the fair will be an unbounded success.

Bulletin Correspondence.

When the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme was first mentioned the advantages to Canada of having another transcontinental railway in the hands not only of a competing company, but of one of the strongest railway organizations on the continent were so evident that no one expected anything but a unanimous endorsement of the proposition. The danger was in that it would not only be accepted, but that it would be accepted too readily and without due regard to the details upon which its advantages to the public would most largely depend. Since the measure has come before parliament, however, a degree of opposition has been developed which is remarkable both for its widespread nature and unexpected character. It would almost seem that as soon as the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme floated into view it was looked upon not as a living and aggressive organization, but as a levathan in shallow water which might very well be picked and poked and finally destroyed by agencies which under other circumstances would be of no account. Whether this feeling derived its strength from the directly opposing interests of the C. P. R. and Canadian Northern, or whether those interests merely took advantage of a general idea, cannot be stated with certainty. It is evident, however, that every advantage has been taken by all opposing interests to delay the progress of the bill without doing it to actually stop it as yet. It is true that the nature of the application left ample room for adverse criticism; but the chief objection which has been put up, was not so much against the plainly objectionable features of the bill as it was introduced, as it was against the bill itself by attempting to load it down with obligations and restrictions which were not to the advantage of the public at large any more than to that of the railway company. The selfish interests of Quebec and the Maritime provinces were made the chief means of objection and delay during the progress of the bill through the railway committee. Now that the bill has reached the House it is becoming apparent that the whole opposition party are gradually being led into a position of indirect, but not less effective antagonism to the project. They have suddenly developed an intense interest in the question of national transportation, and make, on a statement of the government's policy in regard to the construction of a transcontinental railway. It has been evident for some weeks that there is a disposition on the part of the opposition to systematically delay the business of the House. The last up of the grand anti-unionists on Friday night last was merely an instance of their usual methods of procedure, and a part of a plan of campaign which involves the delay of all important business until the government becomes committed in regard to the Grand Trunk Pacific scheme so that party advantage may be taken. In the mean time important business, which should be carefully transacted is being hung up, so that when peace has become exhausted and it becomes impossible to hold even their own members any longer, it will be rushed through without due consideration, and most likely to the very great detriment of the interests of the country.

It is generally taken for granted by the public that the government is responsible for everything that occurs or does not occur in parliament. The government is certainly responsible for every act of administration, but the government is not and cannot be responsible for the delay in the transaction of business by parliament caused by the refusal of the opposition to permit business to be transacted. It is the privilege of parliament that every member has a right to be heard and there is no limit to the length of time he may occupy, or while in committee of the whole, to the number of times he may speak. This puts a powerful weapon in the hands of the opposition; a most useful and indeed necessary weapon, but the opposition which uses the weapon must be held responsible for its use or for its abuse. To use it for the purpose of delaying business or to thwart a national enterprise in the hope of securing a party advantage is certainly an abuse of which the opposition should be held to strict account in the present instance.

A Runaway Train

Tribune.

Spokane, Wash., June 25.—Sixty cars of lumber and shingles, after a mad race of five miles along the Great Northern main line this morning, jumped the track at Division street bridge and crashed into a laundry and a dwelling house, completely wrecked both, and as a result five people are dead. The crash was terrific and the debris piled up higher than the surrounding houses. The cars formed part of a train which was eastward bound and just after passing Hilliard, a division point five miles east of Spokane, one of the couplings broke and the cars started on an awful downhill race for the city. The train crew of three brakemen and the conductor, realizing what has happened, made frantic efforts to control the flying cars, but when they found these useless, they jumped and saved their lives.

Into the Spokane yards she tore at a break-neck clip of more than eighty miles an hour, when the curve at Division street was reached she jumped the track and smashed into the houses across the street. For a moment panic reigned. The street was full of people, and before these could realize what had happened they were in the center of a mass of flying timber, car wheels, brake beams, and pieces of flying iron. So great was the force of the impact that the wheels were split in two, and huge beams of wood were made into matchwood, and these, with the ruins of the houses which were demolished, formed a perfect cyclone of death dealing matter.

The wreckage was piled up over forty feet. Two cramps who were stealing a ride on the cars were instantly killed. Bill Thomas, Elmer Steen, an unknown man and a boy of about nine years of age, who were in the laundry building, and on the street, also perished in the crash, and the only wonder is that so few were killed, for there were many people in the street, and the flying wreckage covered the ground for acres.

WHEREAS it is deemed expedient by the Municipal Council of the Town of Edmonton, that the Municipality should acquire lands for the purposes mentioned in subsections 50 and 70 of Section 93 of the Municipal Ordinance (C.R.O. 1898, c. 70) annually for the purposes of acquiring lands for obtaining gravel for municipal uses and for a nuisance ground for the purpose of disposing of the sewage and other refuse of the municipality;

And whereas it is expedient to enable the Municipal Council to raise, by the issue of Debentures, a sum not exceeding $5000 to be expended for the purposes aforesaid;

And whereas it is expedient that the amount to be borrowed for the purposes aforesaid, if such authority be accorded, should be payable during the period of fifteen years from the date of the debentures to be issued therefor, and should bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum and either (1) that the same should be repayable in such manner that each installment of principal and interest shall be equal in each year of the said period of fifteen years; or (2) that the principal shall be repayable at the end of fifteen years from the said date of issue being made for the repayment thereof by the creation of an equal annual sinking fund and the interest annually;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property in the municipality, according to the last revised assessment roll, is $1,724,420.00;

And whereas the total amount of the general debt of the municipality, exclusive of local improvement debts secured by special assessments, and outside of the debt due for the current expenses of the year, is $51,508.74, whereof no part is in arrears;

And whereas it is expedient that this By-law should take effect on the 21st day of July next;

Now therefore the Municipal Council of the Town of Edmonton, duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. The Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Edmonton are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow for the purposes aforesaid, on behalf of the Municipality a sum or sums not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of $5000 and to issue one or more debentures of the Municipality for such sum or sums so borrowed.

2. The said indebtedness shall be paid during a period of fifteen years from the date of the issue of such debentures or debentures, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding five per cent per annum, and shall, as the Council shall deem expedient, be repayable either: (1) in such manner that each installment of principal and interest shall be equal in each year of the said period of fifteen years; or (2) in such manner that the principal shall be paid at the end of the said period of fifteen years (an equal annual sum by way of sinking fund being raised annually during the said period sufficient to meet the principal at maturity) and the interest thereon yearly.

3. During the currency of the said indebtedness there shall be raised annually by special general rate on all the rateable property in the municipality at the same time and in the same manner as the ordinary general municipal taxes, and a sufficient sum to meet the amount of the annual installment of principal and interest, or the amount of the equal annual sinking fund and the annual interest, as the case may be, payable in each year in respect of the said indebtedness.

4. This By-law shall take effect on the 21st day of July.

5. The vote of the electors for and against this By-law shall be taken at the Council Chamber in the City Hall in the Town of Edmonton on Monday,

6. George Johnstone Kinnaird is hereby appointed Returning Officer and Kenneth Collings, Deputy Returning Officer to take the votes at the time and place aforesaid.

7. The said Council Chamber at the hour of 5:30 p.m. of the said 20th day of July, 1933, is hereby fixed as the place and time where and when the Returning Officer shall sum up the number of votes given for or against this By-law.
